

CAREER DEVELOPMENT

Introduction

After attending the talk on career development, I possess valuable insights and clear direction regarding my future career development. Additionally, I am well-informed about the necessary actions to take at this juncture to facilitate my forthcoming professional journey. In this poster, I will reflect on key points from the talk and relate them to my own career ambitions.

Content

The first talk provides valuable insights into effective preparation for our future prospects, encompassing personal growth and resume writing. Simplifying job hunting involves four key strategies: plan, do, act, and check. A well-crafted resume and comprehensive portfolio are essential for attracting HRs' attention. The interview performance is equally crucial, underscoring the need to enhance our communication skills through deliberate practice for career success.

The second talk, delivered by PPG, underscored the significance of soft skills like communication, collaboration, and time management in any corporate setting. University life functions as a microcosm of society, making it an ideal testing ground for honing these soft skills that will prove invaluable in your future career. Moreover, the PPG representative stressed the importance of SQL, particularly for roles involving data-related tasks. Developing proficiency in SQL could be indispensable if you aspire to work in this domain.

Senior students also provided valuable advice. The third-year seniors stressed the need for self-improvement through workshops and portfolio updates on LinkedIn and GitHub and the second-year seniors recommended focusing on studies with limited club participation to maintain a balanced academic progress.

Reflection

These talks have clarified my future career objectives. I now recognize the significance of self-improvement and personal development. I will be committing to engaging in industry-related programs and courses to expand my knowledge and enhance my competitiveness. Furthermore, I am dedicated to refining my soft skills, ensuring effective collaboration and communication with future colleagues, broadening my network to benefit my career, understand and cater public's needs

Summary

In summary, this poster encapsulates the essence of a career development on the talks. We explore key issues such as goal setting, lifelong learning, networking and adaptability, which will become the basis for our future career development. By integrating these criteria into our career paths, we can increase our chances of achieving our goals and maintaining a fulfilling job.
